The 300 practice treatment hours need to meet the requirements followed and given by the accreditation by the professional associations. The practice forms made by the N.S.K.S. are to be used for submitting the 300 practice hours. The form is added to the course material by the N.S.K.S. which is handed out to the students. The questions asked are to be acted upon, submitted and answered as accurately and as clearly as possible. The form also needs to be signed by the person who was treated and should mention the time spent for every treatment. Treatments of direct family members do not count as practice hours. The hours made at practice evenings at the N.S.K.S. can be used as practice hours, as these hours were spent under supervision of a teacher.
